

Bluemont

in our communities since 1976

A non-profit cultural and educational organization founded in 1976, Bluemont enriches Virginia communities throughout the year, entertaining and educating people of all ages. From our Artist-In-Education Program for schools and Healthcare Outreach Program for the elderly and infirm, to special community events and our well-known summer concert series, Bluemont's mission is to join with local volunteers and community leaders to provide free or low-cost programs that build the cultural spirit in our communities.

Bluemont in our schools

Since 1976, Bluemont's Artist-In-Education program has served 1,725,390 children in participating Virginia school districts by blending music, dance, poetry, drama and other arts with history, social sciences, languages, natural science, reading, geography, and literature in a creative and motivational approach to education. These enrichment programs are a product of Bluemont's broad experience with the cultural arts and our longstanding commitment to schools and communities. Artist-In-Education programs are offered at nominal cost to schools, subsidized and made possible by support from people like you. Want to help stretch your school's arts enrichment budget? Bluemont for our seniors

Our Healthcare Outreach Program turns hospitals and nursing homes into concert halls by bringing quality entertainment to the very deserving but often underserved elderly members of our community. Bluemont has
